When you first start investing, it can be a really exciting time. But just in case you’re also feeling a bit overwhelmed... you’re not alone. Most people feel that way at first.

But you only have to make two decisions before opening your account.

You choose what kind of account is right for you…

and how much guidance you want for that account.

Sounds doable, right? I'll go through it on my screen and show you exactly where to find the information you need.

Okay, so most people are either going to select a general investing account... or one of Merrill’s Individual Retirement accounts, also known as IRAs.

If you’re focused on retirement, start here and take a look at “Compare IRAs” to understand the different options. Or you can even try Merrill’s IRA selector tool if that works better for you.
If you aren’t looking at retirement right now, Merrill has general investing accounts that offer more flexibility to take out money before you retire.

You just decide if it’ll be in your name alone, or a joint account. And if you’re opening it for someone under 18, you need to make it a “custodial” account.

One thing to keep in mind, if you’re moving any assets from another investment company,

…the easiest thing to do is to create the same kind of account with Merrill. Anything else can impact your taxes.

Now, if you have assets from an old job or 401(k), you have choices. We have experienced people who can discuss the advantages and disadvantages of the choices.

Okay, once you’ve decided what kind of account you want to open, you can pick how you want to work with Merrill.

Would you rather go with your own investment ideas, or have one of Merrill’s professionals manage and invest your account for you?

Once you get email confirmation that your account is live, you can fund it and start trading from any device. But don’t worry… we have other videos and plenty of support as you move along.

And if you need a bit more help, you can schedule time with a Merrill Advisor. They’ll work one-on-one with you to find what’s important to you and offer advice on pursuing those goals.

So, don’t feel overwhelmed. You’re just a few decisions and a couple clicks away from building your financial future with Merrill. And that’s pretty exciting. Thank you for watching.

Did you know that there are two ways to move assets from one IRA to another? The most common is a transfer. This is when you transfer assets from an IRA held at one financial institution to an IRA at another. You may directly transfer assets between investment firms as frequently as you wish. The second, less common approach is called an indirect rollover. Rollovers occur when you withdraw assets from an IRA and then “roll” those assets back into the same IRA or into another one within 60 days. IRS rules limit you to one rollover per client per twelve-month period.

You have choices about what to do with your 401(k) or other type of plan-sponsored accounts. Depending on your financial circumstances, needs and goals, you may choose to roll over to an IRA or convert to a Roth IRA, roll over a 401(k) from a prior employer to a 401(k) at your new employer, take a distribution, or leave the account where it is. Each choice may offer different investments and services, fees and expenses, withdrawal options, required minimum distributions, tax treatment (particularly with reference to employer stock), and provide different protection from creditors and legal judgments. These are complex choices and should be considered with care. For more information visit merrilledge.com/rollover or call Merrill at 888.637.3343.

Merrill Guided Investing and Merrill Guided Investing with Advisor have an annual program fee of 0.45% and 0.85%, respectively, based on the assets held in the account. This fee is charged monthly in advance. In addition to the annual program fee, the expenses of the investments will vary based on the specific funds within each portfolio. Actual fund expenses will vary; please refer to each fund's prospectus.
