IMPORTANT INFORMATION

General

In the document, references to Merrill Lynch means Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Incorporated and its affiliates. Fees, charges, commissions, other transaction charges, fund sales charges, and the fees and charges for new issue transactions are determined by reference to various schedules and methodologies and pricing arrangements and agreements in effect from time to time and which are subject to change. Fee ranges are provided for informational purposes only. The fee information does not cover all available securities or investment types. In addition, there are other fees and charges that apply to the securities activities in your account. In certain transactions, minimum commission charges will apply. Certain commissions may be discounted by your advisor at his or her discretion. Individual circumstances will determine commission prices and whether you qualify for any waivers or discounts.

The information contained in this Overview is provided for informational purposes only and is not meant to replace your close review of the terms and conditions contained in the agreements for the Merrill Lynch programs and accounts, the disclosures relating to individual securities and other information. The fee information included in this Overview does not cover all available investment types or solutions or certain fees that apply to securities activities in your account. Additional fees may apply. Please review the Merrill Lynch Schedule of Miscellaneous Account and Service Fees for more information.

Fixed income security pricing

The mark-up or mark-down amount compensates the firm and the advisor for the transaction execution. Purchases and sales of fixed income securities may occur in the over-the-counter markets and Merrill Lynch may act in a principal capacity (for its own account) in executing that order. A mark-up/mark-down is based on the principal value of the trade. The amount will vary based on the following criteria:

- Product type – Corporate bonds have higher mark-ups/mark-downs than government products
- Maturity of the instrument – Shorter maturities have lower mark-ups/mark-downs; longer maturities have higher mark-ups/mark-downs
- Purchase vs. sale – Purchases have higher mark-ups than mark-downs for sales due to the buy and hold nature of fixed income securities.

Certain fixed income security features such as call dates may result in lower mark-ups/mark-downs than shown in the fixed income schedule. Additional maturity breakpoints will have different maximum mark-ups/mark-downs. For products priced on a discount basis, including treasury bills, agency discount notes and commercial paper, the mark-up can be up to 0.20% and there is no mark-down. Mortgage-backed securities are subject to the same mark-ups as Corporate bonds and assessed on the security's average life. Preferreds are generally traded on stock exchanges where equity commissions will apply. When Preferreds are traded in the over-the-counter markets, they are subject to the maximum rates for fixed income securities noted above. In certain transactions, mark-ups/mark-downs may be disclosed on client confirmation statements as a total dollar amount and as a percentage of the prevailing market price. In the rare case where a trade is executed as agent, mark-up/mark-downs are not charged but commissions may be charged and will be disclosed on client confirmation statements. Commissions are subject to the same maximums as noted in the schedules provided.

Mutual funds

Fees and expenses in a mutual fund, including the sales charges paid by the fund to Merrill Lynch in connection with a purchase by you of fund shares, reduce the net asset value of the fund and the investment return. Actual sales charges and trails, breakpoints and sales waivers are controlled by each fund's prospectus and vary according to type of strategy and fund. Please refer to each fund's specific prospectus to understand the particular features of each share class. The Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA) maintains a Mutual Fund Expense Analyzer tool on its website at www.finra.org/fundanalyzer that may help you in making a decision about which share class is best for you.

Merrill Lynch has entered into agreements with various fund families or their service providers to be paid for services provided to mutual funds and money market funds and our customers, including retirement plan customers that invest in these funds. Each fund's operating costs include (like other mutual fund expenses) its allocable share of the fees and expenses of these services. These service arrangements generally vary by mutual fund. The amount of these fees is deducted directly from the client's or the retirement plan's investment in the mutual fund and/or paid by the fund's service providers (as may be described in the prospectus and statement of additional information for the fund). These fees are not paid directly out of your account, but are either borne by the mutual fund, like other mutual fund expenses, or by the mutual fund's principal underwriter or other agent.

We have prepared and provided to you a document entitled Mutual Fund Investing at Merrill Lynch, available at ml.com/funds, which goes into greater detail on fees and expenses for mutual fund share classes available through us. This document is also available from your advisor upon request.

Alternative investments

We or our affiliates have negotiated fee sharing arrangements with managers of certain hedge funds and private equity funds. Under these arrangements, we or our affiliates receive additional compensation (Additional AI Compensation) in order to defray certain costs related to administrative, operational, marketing or other services we provide in connection with your investment in an Alternative Investment fund. The Additional AI Compensation is based on portions of the management fees, performance-based compensation and/or other asset-based fees payable by these funds to the fund manager or its affiliates or that are attributable to investments made in the fund through us or our affiliates, including investments made by you. The actual terms of our fee sharing arrangements with fund managers may be disclosed in the offering materials of the relevant Alternative Investment fund or feeder fund, subject to confidentiality requirements and other obligations imposed by the fund managers.

Annuities

Merrill Lynch as broker-dealer and our affiliate, Merrill Lynch Life Agency, Inc. (MLLA) as general agent, have entered into selling agreements with unaffiliated insurance companies to offer annuities. MLLA and your advisor represent the insurance company in connection with the sale of the annuity and provide services to you on behalf of the insurance company. Variable annuities are offered by prospectus.

The terms and expenses for each annuity (including surrender charges, optional benefit charges and other insurance company expenses) are set out in a contract between you (annuity owner) and the insurance company (annuity issuer). All client charges associated with the annuity are disclosed in the annuity contract and prospectus, if applicable, and are paid to the annuity issuer. The fees outlined above are paid to MLLA by the annuity issuer. The annuity issuer includes these charges in the pricing of its products. All annuity contract guarantees, including optional benefits, fixed rates and annuity payout rates, are backed by the claims-paying ability of the annuity issuer. They are not backed by Merrill Lynch or its affiliates. Neither Merrill Lynch nor its affiliates make any representations or guarantees regarding the claims-paying ability of the annuity issuer.
